Voyager teams up with HIGH BAR Hospitality & Event Group to provide precise and customized dosing at Catered Events using Voyager's proprietary dispenser.

Voyager's proprietary dispenser is simple and precise allowing for dosing in 1 mg increments

Voyager is planning to launch two lines of pods with liquid cannabis concentrate for sublingual use and beverage infusion applications

TORONTO, Ontario Voyager Products, a Health Tech company focused on precise dosing of liquid concentrates, is pleased to announce that it has entered into a collaboration agreement with the HIGH BAR Hospitality & Event Group.

The goal of the collaboration is for HIGH BAR to use Voyager's dispensers and pods at their events. These would be used to dispense cannabis concentrates in order to microdose beverages and foods.

"Obviously, at large events, guests inevitably will have different tolerance and experience levels with cannabis. We love Voyager's innovation as we can in a simple manner, customize the cannabis infused beverage for our guests in a very precise and consistent manner" says Lucas Margulis, CEO at HIGH BAR Hospitality & Event Group.

Voyager's business model revolves around its proprietary dispenser which is designed to dispense liquid concentrates in 1 mg increments at a very high accuracy. The dispenser works with pods made available by a network of partners with their own formulations, brands and distribution networks.

Canadians are starting to learn about cannabis and how it can help them from a health and wellness perspective. They are concerned, however, about the current lack of precise dosing solutions (which allows them to maintain control), and the negative effects of smoking and inhalation (which could impact their health and leaves a bad smell). Voyager's solution addresses these key barriers to cannabis consumption.

"We are excited about working with HIGH BAR Hospitality & Event Group. It allows our innovation to show off in a high pace environment where customization and precision dosing is key" says Arjen Melis, President at Voyager.
